

ABSTRACT Of The Invention

The invention relates to a process for the biological treatment of waste water in fixed-bed reactors. The process includes the steps of dividing the waste water (2) into two part streams (10, 11). In one part stream, the pollutants in the waste water are aerobically treated while in the other part stream the pollutants are anaerobically treated.